Short- and long-term disability plans can help protect your clients from lost income

May 12, 2022

May is Disability Insurance Awareness Month. You can make a difference by offering your clients short- and long-term disability plans as part of their total benefits package. It helps provide employees with financial stability when it's needed most.

Disability insurance can work together with your client's medical benefits. When disability and medical benefits are integrated, claims data is shared so that care providers and clinical and claims professionals work together to help employees get healthy and return to work faster.

Disability plans from Anthem Life offer more than just a benefits check. They offer your clients and their employees:

- Stay-at-work services
- Services to help employees return to a productive life
- Help with modifying employee workspaces
- Emotional, legal, and financial counseling, even for employees who don't have claims
- Resources to help with issues such as isolation, depression, and anxiety
